A Cowboy Worth Loving (Canton County Cowboys Book 1) Charlene Bright

A Cowboy Worth Loving is a full-length, stand-alone novel of 50,000 words. It is the first book in the "Canton County Cowboys" series of modern western romance stories and is recommended for readers who enjoy contemporary romance with a touch of cowboy.

Lucy Lancaster became an attorney to fight the injustices she saw happen to her father when she was just a little girl. She has dedicated her life to doing what she can for those in need. When she volunteers to help on a case involving a wealthy, callous neighbor and the state of Texas joining forces to take land away from struggling brother-sister ranchers, Kayla and Gavin Walker, she's pushes her professional limits. Kayla is sweet and easy to work with. Gavin is suspicious, rude and uncooperative... and the most drop dead gorgeous cowboy Lucy has ever laid eyes on.

Gavin Walker grew up on Salt Cedar Ranch. He left home at eighteen for college in the city and found out that people aren't always what they seem. When the justice system turned its back on him, he spent five years paying for a crime that never happened. Now that he's back home on the ranch, his neighbor and the government are joining forces to take away the only thing he truly trusts: his land. Lucy Lancaster, the sexy, beautiful, smart attorney from the city wants to help, but why? Gavin doesn't want to trust her, but he's inexplicably drawn to her.

The attraction between these two cannot be ignored, no matter how hard they try, but will they realize it before it's too late?
