The Great Dane Saga charts the amazing life of Dane Danois from when he leaves home at 17 to the day he dies. The stories are not chronological, in part one he is 42. Part One introduces us to Dane. He's a one-off; works 168 hours a week, plays just as hard, consumes shots of coffee at a rate of twenty a day, drinks champagne and vodka like water and smokes Black Russians, has the wardrobe to die for, worships Madonna, never sleeps and would die for a friend and never says "No". He's back in London and meets Angelo, a young fashion design student; they hit it off and things look like they might get serious. Angelo is harbouring a secret and a trip to Dane's home on the island of Jersey reveals the terrible truth that Angelo is hiding. But Dane doesn't ditch him; he's fallen in love. A story about being honest and what it means to give, with all your heart.
